The London Underground

A long, brightly lit underground escalator with people riding it. The escalator is the central focus, stretching from the foreground into the distance. The ceiling is white with a grid of recessed rectangular lights. The walls are dark, and there are some posters or advertisements on the left side. People are seen riding the escalator, some looking towards the camera. The overall atmosphere is clean and modern.

The Underground
is famous for its escalators. I'm only at the middle!
